Session 17: Knowledge Production in Archaeology through Ethnography and Theory

by

Prof. Shereen F Ratnagar
Retd. Professor of Archaeology, JNU

This session seeks to examine ways in which ethnography fills the gaps in archaeological data and social theory helps production of knowledge out of archaeological relics. It is about the methodological dialogue between past objects and present practices through the mediation of theory.

Thursday, 11th December, 4:00pm
CCS Seminar Hall, IISc
(Formerly TIFR Mathematics building)

All are cordially invited
Tea/Coffee are served at 3.30 pm
